INDIANAPOLIS TEAM TO TRAIN IN CHARLEROI

Baseball Club of Federal League to Prepare Here for Season

PHILLIPS ARRANGES

New Organization Looks Good---Noted Baseball Men to Manage Teams

Charleroi has been selected as the training camp for the Indianapolis baseball club of the newly organized Federal league. Manager Bill Phillips of the team, who lives at Allenport and is in business here is making arrangements to have his men report next week. From that time until the opening of the season at Pittsburg on May 6 the Charleroi baseball grounds will be a center of interest.

Final arrangements for the establishment of the Indianapolis training camp at Charleroi were completed by Manager Phillips Wednesday. He has secured hotel rates among the various hotels of the town, his plan being to divide up his men. He has procured the grounds for the training season.

There will be at least 22 men here, Manager Phillips states until the day before the opening at Exposition Park at Pittsburg.

Last Saturday six clubs posted their forfeits of $5,000 each to finish the season, and made final arrangements for getting the league in operation. The teams to compose the league are Pittsburg, Indianapolis, Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, and Cincinnati. It would have been easy to have secured an eight-club circuit but the backers of the league preferred to have the organization composed of six clubs. Then there will be a branching out the ensuing year. This year's season will run until September 14. There is lots of money at the back of the league and indications for success are good.

There is a list of notables among the managers that for real fame would cheapen the National or American league lot. Phillips of course will manage Indianapolis, and he is a former National league pitcher of more than ordinary fame. None other that the renowned "Cy" Young, who spent more years in the box with big league teams than any other man will boss the Cleveland shebang. "Schoolmaster Sam" Leever, former star twirler of the Pittsburg Pirates in their palmiest days will look after the destinies of the Cincinnati aggregation and "Chic" Fraser, former Chicago pitcher, will be at the head of the St. Louis club. Bert Keeley, an ex-National league pitcher is to be the Chicago manager. And among the most noted managers will be "Deacon" Phillipi, who will hea dthe Pittsburg tossers.

The president of the Federal league is John Powers of Chicago, a baseball man of considerable note and much business acumen. In every city good grounds have been secured and sentiment is said to be very much in favor of the new league. It is starting out much after the plan of the American league, which succeeded after a few years in wresting the world's championship from the National league.

Manager Phillips is a very popular man at Indianapolis. He spent some years there as manager of the Indianapolis team in a central state league. That was after he had quit pitching in the National league. Phillips also managed the New Orleans club and made Wheeling in the Central league some time later a pennant winner. From Wheeling he went to East Liverpool and from East Liverpool to Youngstown.

Phillips has done some s cout duty Baorney Dreyfus of the Pittsburg Pirates when Phillips was on scout duty for him, placed implicit faith in his recommendations. As manager and baseball man generally there is not one manager in the new league that has had more experience than Phillips. He promises to be the Connie Mack of the new organization.

ROAD LOAN TO BE UP TO VOTERS

Bond Issue Bill for $50,000,000 Passes House by 189 to 2

SENATE QUITS WORK

Harrisburg, April 17—By a vote of 189 to 2, the resolution to submit to the voters the constitutional amendment for the loan of $50,000,000 for road improvement passed the house finally Wednesday and now goes to the governor. As a matter of fact there never was any danger of the bill falling down in the house, but the opposition developed simply for the purpose of embarrassing the administration, which as well known, is the sponsor of the bill. The two lone votes in opposition t the measure were S. B. Scott of Philadelphia and H. C. Snavely of Lebanon.

In spite of the protests of the house which continued at work the senate adjourned at noon Wednesday, after being in sessin f rom Monday evening. In the meantime all the important bills are still in the hands of the sen-

CHERRY TREES HERE TO BE GIVEN TO BOYS

Order Placed Some Time Ago by Jesse K. Johnston Filled---Trees Budding and Need to be Planted at Once

Cherry trees ordered some time ago by Jesse K. Johnston for his boy friends in Charleroi have arrived and are being distributed today from the office of the Carnegie Coal company, which was formerly the Charleroi Coal company office. The trees are nearly all in bud and coming out in leaf, showing the need of putting in the ground at once.

Mr. Johnston asks that the boys who want the trees come to the coal works office after them. The only necessary thing for the boys to do is to make known their desire to obtain a tree which is a promise virtually to plant it and take care of it.

Only the best varieties of cherries were ordered by Mr. Johnston. They are calculated to thrive in the soil here. It is believed that there will be considerable of a demand for the cherry trees. If the present supply runs short Mr. Johnston will order more. It was his intention if possible to have them here by Arbor day, which occurred on April 11, but unavoidable delays made this impossible.

LIVESTOCK BOARD PUSHES VIOLATOR

Law is Enforced by Department in Case of Central Pennsylvania Man

Howard C. Kramlich, a cattle dealer of Northampton, was tried before Judge Stewart at Easton on April 15 charged with shipping cattle into Pennsylvania without a permit or certificate of health. The jury found him guilty on all three counts of the indictment. He was fined $100.00 and costs, amounting in all to about $225.00.

The charges were brought by agents of the Pennsylvania State Livestock Sanitary Board, who had traced the cattle from New York State. Some of the cows, which were badly affected by tuberculosis, were found in the dairy of a farmer near Catasauqua to whom Kramlich had sold them as healthy cattle.

GOOD BILL LISTED FOR SHOW AT PALACE

The vaudeville bill which opens at the Palace Theatre this evening for the balance of the week, including a Saturday matinee, will be composed of the Manhattan Trio, in comedy singing, Mae McGowan, in singing, and Les Dovano, in a clever and spectacular novelty act, with special scenery for the occasion. All of these acts are of a high class character and as each bill has proven to be a drawing card, there is every reason to expect the present one to be fully up to the standard. Two excellent motion pictures, "The Woe of Battle," a Kalem and "A Mother's Sacrifice," a Lubin, will also be presented tonight.

LOCAL PEOPLE HEAR CARDINAL AT PITTSBURG

The appearance of Cardinal Gibbons and C. J. Bonaparte and talks by both in Pittsburg Wednesday attracted many from the Monongahela valley. Among those who went from here were John Maines, T. P. Sloan, Peter Lee, P. J. Fox, William Feeney, Rev. Joseph Daniele, and Rev. B. N. Axmacher.

NO PAY, NO SERVICE WAY AT MONONGAHELA

Complications Develop From Cutting Off of City Phone

SMALL BILL VS LARGE

City Owes Company $5.60 and Company Owes City $903--May Cut Poles

Interesting complications may result from the cutting off of telephone service at the Monongahela city hall by Manager Frank B. Burwell of the Central District Telephone company, more widely known as the Bell system. Service was suspended this week it is asserted because the city had failed to recognize a statement from the company amounting to $5.60 Th city claims $903 is due on pole tax. Also the city claims the Bell system has no standing whatever in Monongahela and that it in reality has no franchise there.

Though the city has been paying in the last two or three years its telephone rental regularly, the Bell company has made no move it is alleged to pay its bill. Pole tax was assessed at the rate of $1.00 a pole, and the bill runs back to two or three years. "Exorbitant" says the company which agrees to pay ten cen's a pole. "Not at all," argues the city, which furthermore affirms that other companies among them the West Penn Electric company and the Pittsburg Railways company pay that much per pole and pay it without question.

It is stated that by a decision of Judge Taylor in Monongahela the Bell system's ordinance became null and void about two years ago. The city has permitted them to maintain service since that time however and thee has been no question raised until date though the company has been positively prohibited from making any extensions or hanging any new wires.

Today the city hall at Monongahela is isolated so far as telephone service is concerned. Councilmen are wrathy, and the efforts of the Independent telephone company to acquire a franchise in Monongahela will probably meet with considerable disfavor.

Moreover it is asserted that the declaration of war by the company will reach the courts. The city is determined not to budge one inch from its present position. Instead it will most likely give the matter of collection into the hands of the solicitor.

About a year ago Charleroi had some trouble colecting its pole tax from the Bell Telephone company but finally the company did pay and at the rate the borough assessed, which was 50 cents per pole.

If the Monongahela affair is not amicably settled within a very short time it is not unlikely that the proper committee will order the company to remove its poles, or following the example of the Pennsylvania Railroad which, to get the Western Union poles off its property some years ago, simply cut them down. The action of the railroad company brought them in court but the decision was in the railroad's favor, proving that the telegraph company by maintaining its poles on the railroad property after the expiration of its contract was nothing mre r less than trespass.

Good Talk by Stewart

"Saloons Vs Business" Theme of Lecture by Noted Prohibitionist

Hon. Oliver Wayne Stewart of Chicago, Ill. lectured at the Christian church Wednesday under the auspices of a union of churches on the theme "The Saloon vs Business." His lecture attracted a good sized crowd to the church. Mr. Stewart took up four phases under his topic, the church side of the question, the moral side, the matter of good government and the economical aspect. His points were good, and cited by his argument that the liquor business was an enemy to good business, good government, morals and the church.

BUSY AT RACING GROUND

Many Horses Stabled at Washington Fair Plant at Arden

AWAIT RACING SEASON

With close to 100 horses stabled, and new additions daily, the Arden racing plant of the Washington Fair association is right now one of the busiest in the country. The association has contracted for the quick erection of 26 additional stalls required to meet the urgent needs of trainers now there and others who wish to go. Aside from this W. H. Davis, owner of the Littleton Stock Farm has begun work on a fine new 20-stall barn for his horses.

Among the trainers to reach the Washington track recently is A. B. Crispen of Smithfield, O. He has a promising green trotting gelding by Milroi, size of last year's good trotting Robert Milroi, 2:07 1-3. dam by Bow Bells. This horse has never been trained but has shown by his looks and gait that he should make a fast trotter.

I. C. McKay of Fayette City, has just located five head, including the splendid winner of last year Nunda, O, 2:15 1-4, Princess Alcantara 2:19 1-4, Sir Roberts, a green trotter by Lord Roberts 2:07 3-4 and Patchen B, a green trotter by Alf Patchem, 2:10 1-4. McKay expects several additions shortly.

A Little Truth About Cigars

In order that a Cigar, no matter what price, be good it is necessary that it retains it's original flavor. This Original Flavor can only be maintained in a Cigar by keeping it in the same temperature and same degree of moisture as it was kept in at the Factory. A Cigar once dried can never again have the flavor that it should have.

We have installed in our Cigar Case an Electrical Device that automatically makes moisture and keeps the temperature at the same degree at all times. CONSEQUENTLY OUR CIGARS ARE GOOD.

LOANS FOR COLLEGE COURSES.

A bill pending in the New York Legislature provides a plan for making loans to graduates of high schools and similar educational institutions who want to go to college but lack money, says the New York Sun. The loans are to be repaid after graduation from college and without interest for one year thereafter. The provisions of the bill apply to any high school in the State, but are especially intended to affect the high school of Yonkers. While similar aid is extended to graduates of some of the higher educational institutions in the United States, there is no other high school in the country which offers the same opportunity to its pupils.

The idea originated with the late Leslie M. Sauders, a manufacturer of Yonkers, who did a great deal in aiding the educational advancement of the city; Charles E. Gorton, superintendent of schools; Richard Ely and other public spirited men in Yonkers. They believed that a helping hand should be extended to worthy boy and girl graduates of the high school who were anxious to obtain a higher education but were without financial means to do so.

It was proposed that loans should be made to such graduates, no security being required other than a promisory note providing for payment of the loan without interest within one year after graduation or with interest if an extension of this period was desired. Of course, under the law such notes would be worthless, the makers being minor, while no indorsements were required. It is believed that the character of the boys or girls selected as worthy of receiving loans will in itself be a sufficient guarantee that the money will be repaid as a debt of honor. The candidates to be thus aided are to be passed upon by a committee of those forming the organization after having been recommended by the principal and the faculty of the high school.

At first an effort was made to incorporate an organization but the Secretary of State rejected the articles of incorporation, saying that while the object of the incorporators was entirely philanthropic, yet under the law they would be enabled to operate as a business concern. It was therefore decided to have a bill introduced in the Legislature making it possible to carry out the objects desired the organization to be self-perpetuating under the name of the Students Aid Society of the Yonkers High School.

Since the fact became known that such an organization was to be established requests have come from cities in other States, notably New Jersey and Connecticut that graduates of high schools in those States should be included in the opportunities offered graduates of the Yonkers High School. To these requests replies were sent explaining that it was only intended that graduates of that particular school should be eligible for financial assistance in their desire to gain a college education.

OUR BID FOR FAME.

Once again Charleroi is in the spotlight. This time it is in the baseball world. As the training ground for the Indianapolis club of the new Federal league which has just been organized, the Magic City will for a brief period come in for a portion of the fame that is accorded Baden, Indiana, Hot Springs, Arkansas and other training grounds of the professional ball clubs that occupy the attention of the fans more or less in the winter season and considerably more from this time hence. In addition to this Charleroi and Monongahela valley fans will have a special interest in the new league which has just been launched, from the fact that the town figures prominently in its organization.

This distinction is due to the fact that Charleroi happens to be the headquarters of Bill Phillips, who will organize and manage the Indianapolis club. Next to Governor Tener, our own Bill is probably the widest known citizen of Charleroi. While he has never figured much in politics or society, in baseball circles his name is familiar from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast and from the Canadian border to the Mexican line. First, as a topnotch pitcher in the National League, with a first-class record, then as a scout and adviser of some of the big league magnates, and later as a most successful manager in the minors, Bill Phillips has achieved a most enviable record in the baseball school of experience. The new league promises to fill in a popular niche in the baseball world, and Charleroi's part in its organization will give it added interest all along the Monongahela valley.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A common experience thes days over the hills and out in the country is to encounter dandelion hunters. These are singly or in groups, and are composed for the most part of women and children, all eager for a mess of "greens." As dandelions are the most available for "greens" in this section, the plant, which in some instances becomes a pest is in danger of extermination.

"Hunting 'greens' always makes me hark back to the days of my childhood up in the northern part of the state,' said an elderly man who was out in quest of the festive dandelion. "With us cowslips was the favorite early 'greens.' I have never seen or known of any cowslips in this section, but where I used to live the plant grew most profusely in the swamp sections. It was a low wide-leafed plant, bearing a yellow flower similar to a buttercup. The 'greens' were in their prime when they first sprung up early in the spring before they budded for blossom, and they made a most delectable dish. In my early childhood going 'cowslipping' with mother and the girls constituted a joyous outing. It was tinged with a spice of adventure, as the cowslips were rather difficult to gather and some one of the party was always sure to make a mistep from the old logs and bogs about the swamp and get wet and muddy feet

"Then there was another wild plant we used to gather and that was the festive leek. Where I used to live they were an abundant crop. A leek, which you know is a species of the onion is cultivated extensively in some sections, particularly in the old countries. The American species that grows wild in the northern counties of this state is a most delicious vegetable and is as much superior to green onions in flavor as a peach is to an apple. But oh, the flavor, after you have eaten them. They give one a breath that doubly discounts the combined odor of a garbage wagon, a glue factry and the fleshing department of a tannery. We kids used to eat them while going to school and the odor in the school room would be so unbearable that the teacher would send the leek-eaters home. The cows that used to run at large were very fond of the leeks and tainted milk and butter were common in thes pring time.

"Then there was a variety of other good 'greens' that grew wild in profusion—poke berry leaves, cow cabbage, and a number of other things. We never thought of raising spinach or any other kind of 'greens,' as all one had to do was to go out into the woods or fields and find them anywhere."

ate committees and the refusal of the latter body to bring them out in causing murmurs loud and deep throughout the state. Those Republicans who have been hopeful that the legislature would act promptly on the progressives measure demanded by the people which would have the effect of harmonizing the Republican party, are becoming very much dejected over the matter.

The senate has concurred in the house amendments to the mothers' pension bill, and the measure now goes to the governor. The house has cleared a big reading calendar, and is making rapid progress in its work.

The Fiddle Drill.

The "fiddle drill" is one of the oldest stonecutting tools in existence. It is said to antedate Greek sculpture and is in use today in about the same form as it was 2,000 years ago. As its name implies, its action resembles a fiddle. The drill is of two pieces. In one hand a carver holds the drill stock, which is like a carpenter's brace, except that it is straight instead of having a crank. In the other hand he holds the "bow," which is strung with a brass wire and which is given a turn around the drill stock. To use the drill the carver places the drill stock against his breast, holding it with his left hand, and with his right he draws the bow back and forth, fiddle fashion. This imparts a rotary motion to the drill stock, and the drill is ground to cut in either way it turns. The fiddle drill is used in the finest work, in crevices where the sculptor could not reach with his chisel and hammer without endangering the carving.

An Honest Thief.

On leaving a Paris theater a German gentleman felt for his watch. It was gone. Having a strong suspicion he laid violent hands on a man in the crowd, who quietly gave up the ticket. When he got home he found his own watch lying on the table.

An Extended Vacation.

"Mrs. Nagg is thinking of visiting the Thousand Islands."

"I wonder if Mr. Nagg would be glad to have her spend six months on each one?" Birmingham Age-Herald.

Information Not Needed.

A middle aged woman went into a shop and without hesitation made straight for the crape counter. The girl who handled this funeral material was extremely affable.

"We have a large stock of crapes," she explained. "Let me show you some new French goods, very popular at this time for every kind of mourning and designed to express every degree of grief. If you will tell me for whom you are in mourning I can fix you out in exactly the right thing."

"Husband," replied the customer briefly.

"In that case," said the girl graciously, "I can tell you just what"—

"Young lady," interrupted the older woman angrily, "you needn't bother yourself. This is the fourth husband I've buried, and I know all about it."—St. Paul Dispatch.

What It Cost.

In a little town in England not long ago the entire family had been at church and the young minister was coming home to dine with them. While at dinner they were discussing the new stained glass window a member had given. "It is a most beautiful piece of workmanship," said one, "and must have cost a great deal of money." "Do you have any idea how much?" "I really do not," replied the minister, "but far into the hundreds, I should imagine." "No, it didn't," said little Harold. "I know how much it was. It cost 14s. 10d." "Why, Harold, how do you know anything about it?" "Because, mamma, it says at the bottom of the window, 'Job 14, 10.'"—London Globe.

Reason For It.

At a debating society some time ago the Irish question was discussed. An English doctor was sustaining the argument that the Irish were naturally a race with right sentiments, but poorly developed. At Liverpool, he said, he had 300 Irish patients on his books and of these only thirty paid him for attendance.

"Sorr," said an Irishman, who rose with flushed cheek to defend his countrymen—"sorr, there is never an effect without a cause. There is never a phenomenon that does not admit of an explanation. How can we explain the astounding phenomenon to which the doctor has called our attention? He finds an explanation in the natural depravity of the Irish nature. I, sorr, have another explanation to give, and it is this—the thirty patients recovered!"—Pearson's Weekly.

She Paid the Duty.

An English traveler, leaving Alexandria, received a parting present of a large cake, and received it with what enthusiasm she could, but landed at Venice with the cake entire. The eyes of the dogana spied it. "Duty is due for the design on white sugar that decorates the top of that cake." The traveler answered that as the duty seemed quite heavy she would prefer to sink the cake into the waters of the Adriatic. "But," said the official, "you cannot do that inasmuch as the design in sugar aforesaid on the top of the cake is the property of the king of Italy." The traveler then courageously offered to consume the sugar and drown the cake; but not so might she escape, nor did she.

Women Avoid Operations

When a woman suffering from some form of feminine disorder is told that an operation is necessary, it of course frightens her.

The very thought of the hospital operating table and the surgeon's knife strikes terror to her heart, and no wonder. It is quite true that some of these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but thousands of women have avoided the necessity of an operation by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This fact is attested by the grateful letters they write to us after their health has been restored.

These Two Women Prove Our Claim.

Cary, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely straighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and was fat and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine."—Mrs. Hayward Sowers, Cary, Me.

Charlotte, N. C.—"I was in bad health for two years with pains in both sides and was very nervous. If I even lifted a chair it would cause a hemorrhage. I had a growth which the doctor said was a tumor and I never would get well unless I had an operation. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I gladly say that I am now enjoying fine health and am the mother of a nice baby girl. You can use this letter to help other suffering women."—Mrs. Rosa Sims, 16 Wyona St., Charlotte, N. C.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman submit to a surgical operation without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

SOCIETY AND PERSONAL

Levi C. Noble, John K. Thompson, James P. Ebert and Clarence H. Horn of Beallsville and W. I. Horn and Curtis Rutan of Marianna were business callers Wednesday.

Roy James is home as his school is closed until after the funeral of the teacher who died yesterday.

Ed. C. Drum and Don Allen are spending the day in Pittsburg.

George Newton is a Pittsburg visitor today.

Charles S. Van Voorhis is transacting business today in Pittsburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Christian Deaterly have moved to a farm back of Fayette City.

Frank John has gone to Waynesburg on a business trip.

HE SAW THINGS.

The Boy Obeyed His Dad and Learn to Use His Eyes.

In the daily half hour confidential talk with his boy an ambitious London father tried to give some advice.

"Be observing, my son," said the father on one occasion. "Cultivate the habit of seeing, and you will be a successful man Study things and remember them Don't go through the world blindly. Learn to use your eyes Boys who are observant know a great deal more than those who are not."

Willie listened in silence

Several days later, when the entire family consisting of his mother, aunt and uncle, were present, his father said

"Well, Willie have you kept using your eyes, as I advised you to do?"

Willie nodded and after a moment's hesitation said

"I have seen a few things about the house Uncle Jim's got a bottle of hair dye hid under his bed. Aunt Jennie's got an extra set of teeth and a lot of false hair in her dresser, ma's got some curls sewed in her hat, and pa's got a pack of cards and a box of dice and a leather covered flask behind the bookcase." -London Tit-Bits

PINEAPPLE PLANTS.

They Do Not Die After Fruiting but Reproduce Themselves.

Pineapples do not grow on trees Imagine a plant four feet in extreme height from the ground to the tip of leaves, a single stem at the surface but dividing it up into swordlike blades or leaves. Fifteen in number from the center of which appears a stiff, upright stem, at the top of which is the fruit This stem is short, and the crown of the fruit when fully grown is a foot or more below the points of the leaves.

At the end of a year and a half from planting each plant produces a single fruit, even as a cabbage plant produces a single head But the pineapple does not die after fruiting once Down on the stem below the fruit and among the long, narrow leaves a sucker appears If allowed to remain this will soon become the head of the plant, and within another year it will yield another fruit This process may go on for a term of years. In the meantime, however, other suckers will make their appearance.

These are broken off, and when stuck into the ground they put out roots and become other plants. Thus a single pineapple plant may produce a dozen or more others while it is yielding fruit from year to year.

Beauty of the Zebra.

The zebra is perhaps of all quadrupeds the best made and most beautifully clad by the hand of nature. To the figure and graces of the horse it adds the elegance of the stag, and the black and white bands with which its body is ornamented are arranged with such wonderful symmetry that we might almost be disposed to imagine that rule and compass had been employed in their formation. These alternate bands are narrow, parallel and exactly separated They extend not only over the body, but the head, thigh and legs and even over the ears and tail. They follow so exactly the contour of the different forms that they exhibit the entire figure in the most advantageous point of view. In the female these bands are alternately black and white In the male they are black and yellow, but always of a lively and brilliant tint. They also rest upon a ground of short, fine and copious hairs, whose lustre considerably augments the general beauty of the colors.—Exchange.

An Island City.

Greater New York consists of forty five islands. It might be called the Island City. Read the names of some of the larger: Manhattan Island, Long Island, Staten Island, Hart's Island, City Island, Riker's Island, North Brother Island, South Island, Blackwell's Island, Randall's Island, Ward's Island, Berrian's Island, Governors Island, Barren Island and Coney Island. Many small ones in Jamaica bay have large names. One inland island, Marble Hill, near Kingsbridge, has been made by the government channel cut through on the Harlem river improvements

Human Nature.

"Why is it," asked the curious guest, "that poor men usually give larger tips than rich men?"

"Well, suh," said the waiter, who was something of a philosopher as well, "looks to me like de po man don't want nobody to find out he's po and de rich man don't want nobody to find out he's rich."—Exchange

A Giant Peeps Saw.

King James I had a gigantic porter eight feet six inches in height, but he was not perfect being round shouldered knockkneed and lame in one foot Of a similar height was Charles Munster a woman of the Hanoverian guard who died in 1676, and seven years before there was being exhibited in London a Dutchman eight feet nine inches high whom in Pepys' diary we find the following entry on Aug. 15, 1669: 'Went to Charing Cross to see the great Dutchman. I did walk under his arm with my hat on and could not reach his chin with the tips of my fingers."

Happiness.

If you cannot be happy in one way, be in another, and this facility of disposition wants but little aid from philosophy, for health and good humor are almost the whole affair. Many run about after felicity, like an absent-minded man hunting for his hat while it is in his hand or on his head

Her Property.

Now and again things happen on the football field which go to add to the gayety of the nation. On one occasion, for instance, during a certain league match in the north, the referee somehow managed to lose his whistle. There was not another whistle to be found, and it seemed that the game would have to come to a sudden and inglorious end, until the referee hit upon an ingenious scheme He produced a latchkey from his pocket and managed to tootle merrily enough on it till suddenly, as he approached the touch line a woman's shrill voice was heard exclaiming:

"Fred, come here at once Where did you get that latchkey?"

As he listened to the guffaw which went up from the assembled crowd that referee was the most sheepish looking man on the ground, and as he thought of the curtain lecture looming ahead his heart became like lead within his bosom.—London Answers

YOUR AMBITION.

Have You a Clear Cut Idea of the Object of Your Desire?

Several years ago, when I filled a position which brought me many visitors each day and many more letters at the same time, I was overburdened with requests for advice from persons who wished "to succeed," "to accomplish," "to attain." But, as strange as the statement may seem to you, I can truthfully say that not one in a hundred of these earnest seekers was able to state exactly what he or she really wanted.

They were dissatified and discontented and felt the vague urge of unrest pushing them forward to further endeavor and attainment, but it stopped right there. Ninety-nine out of every hundred did not know what they wanted. They asked not only for advice regarding the means of accomplishment and attainment, but also for information as to what they should really desire.

"Silly," you exclaim. Not a bit of it. I venture to say that you—yes, you who are now reading these lines—are not much better off regarding clear cut ideas and ideals. You want and want and want, of course, but just what do you want? Have you a clearly defined idea and a clear cut ideal of the object of your desire? Honor bright now, have you?—William Walker Atkinson in Nautilus.

A Poet's Homely Face.

The poet Lowell was afflicted with a notably unpleasant, cadaverous countenance, which, with all his intellectual power, was a mortification to him. To hide his annoyance he joked about his ugliness incessantly and deceived his friends into supposing him indifferent to it. He once turned to Sydney Smith, who with Byron and Moore was dining with him, and said:

"Chantrey wants to perpetuate this miserable face of mine What post would you suggest that I should take?"

"If you really wish to spare the world as much as possible," said the wit, "I would, if I were you, be taken at my prayers, my face buried in my hands."

Rogers laughed with the other persons present, but he shot a malignant glance at the jester and, it is said, never fully forgave him for the bonmot

A Primitive Partnership.

There are three partners in a boat in a Yorkshire fishing village who will not accept a check because the bank is too far away They have two miles to walk to get their money orders cashed. Only one of the three is able to read and write, and he draws the money, and then the three sit at a table and divide it

"One for yow," says the leader, and places a sovereign in front of one partner. "One for thee" -and another sovereign is put in front of the other partner. "And one for me"—and he places another at his own corner.

And so he goes on, "One for yow, one for thee, and one for me," until the sovereigns are equally shared, then the silver and even the pence are divided in the same way.—London Mail.

THE UMBRELLA.

Its Antiquity and Its Introduction Into English Writings.

Umbrellas were first used in a country where the intensity of the light and heat rendered a shade almost indispensable, and discoveries at Nineveh show that they were carried before the king in time of peace and sometimes in war

In 1608 Thomas Coryat traveled in Italy and wrote, "The people do carry umbrellas—that is, things that minister shadow unto them for shelter against the scorching of the sun."

In Beaumont and Fletcher's play, 1640, "Rule a Wife and Have a Wife," are these words, which prove that they were then known in England: "Are you at ease? Now is your heart at ease Now you have got a shadow, an umbrella to keep the world's scorching opinion from your fair credit."

In 1786 Jonas Hanway died in a house in Red Lion square He was the first man who ventured to walk the streets of London with an umbrella over his head.

Dr Shebbear was committed in the court of king's bench for a libel and was sentenced to stand in the pillory, but a servant in livery was hired to hold an umbrella over his head to

Beauty of Colonial Gateposts.

Perhaps no other feature adds more to the seclusion and dignity of a house than well designed entrance gateposts. The meeting point of house and grounds always presents a difficult problem, even in the best suburban architecture. Shrubbery often mitigates this unavoidable intersection, but the old fashioned white picket fence full of interesting detail and backed up by hedges, solved the problem most satisfactorily. Yet this best solution must be used with discretion. On suburban streets broken up into many small lots, there should be an agreement on the part of several neighbors to put up the same sort of fence; otherwise the different heights and shapes of the pickets would be too disturbing to add any beauty to the houses In other words, a good picket fence demands a certain amount of continuity to do it justice. In the gateposts, however, a great variety could be displayed, and where there is a group of little colonial houses, or even only colonial doorways, the famous old gateposts of Salem offer a wealth of suggestion.—Country Life In America.

INDIANAPOLIS TEAM TO TRAIN IN CHARLEROI

Baseball Club of Federal League to Prepare Here for Season

PHILLIPS ARRANGES

New Organization Looks Good---Noted Baseball Men to Manage Teams

Charleroi has been selected as the training camp for the Indianapolis baseball club of the newly organized Federal league. Manager Bill Phillips of the team, who lives at Allenport and is in business here is making arrangements to have his men report next week. From that time until the opening of the season at Pittsburg on May 6 the Charleroi baseball grounds will be a center of interest.

Final arrangements for the establishment of the Indianapolis training camp at Charleroi were completed by Manager Phillips Wednesday. He has secured hotel rates among the various hotels of the town, his plan being to divide up his men. He has procured the grounds for the training season

There will be at least 22 men here, Manager Phillips states until the day before the opening at Exposition Park at Pittsburg

Last Saturday six clubs posted their forfeits of $5,000 each to finish the season, and made final arrangements for getting the league in operation. The teams to compose the league are Pittsburg, Indianapolis, Chicago, St. Louis, Cleveland, and Cincinnati It would have been easy to have secured an eight-club circuit but the backers of the league preferred to have the organization composed of six clubs. Then there will be a branching out the ensuing year. This year's season will run until September 14. There is lots of money at the back of the league and indications for success are good.

There is a list of notables among the managers that for real fame would cheapen the National or American league lot. Phillips of course will manage Indianapolis, and he is a former National league pitcher of more than ordinary fame. None other that the renowned "Cy" Young, who spent more years in the box with big league teams than any other man will boss the Cleveland shebang. "Schoolmaster Sam" Leever, former star twirler of the Pittsburg Pirates in their palmiest days will look after the destinies of the Cincinnati aggregation and "Chic" Fraser, former Chicago pitcher, will be at the head of the St Louis club Bert Keeley,an ex-National league pitcher is to be the Chicago manager. And among the most noted managers will be "Deacon" Phillips, who will hea dthe Pittsburg tossers

The president of the Federal league is John Powers of Chicago, a baseball man of considerable note and much business acumen. In every city good grounds have been secured and sentiment is said to be very much in favor of the new league. It is starting out much after the plan of the American league, which succeeded after a few years in wresting the world's championship from the National league.

Manager Phillips is a very popular man at Indianapolis. He spent some years there as manager of the Indianapolis team in a central state league. That was after he had quit pitching in the National league. Phillips also managed the New Orleans club and made Wheeling in the Central league some time later a pennant winner. From Wheeling he went to East Liverpool and from East Liverpool to Youngstown

Phillips has done some s cout duty Baorney Dreyfus of the Pittsburg Pirates when Phillips was on scout duty for him, placed implicit faith in his recommendations As manager and baseball man generally there is not one manager in the new league that has had more experience than Phillips. He promises to be the Connie Mack of the new organization

Bond Issue Bill for $50,000,000 Passes House by 189 to 2

SENATE QUITS WORK

Harrisburg, April 17—By a vote of 189 to 2, the resolution to submit to the voters the consatutional amendment for the loan of $50,000,000 for road improvement passed the house finally Wednesday and now goes to the governor. As a matter of fact there never was any danger of the bill falling down in the house, but the opposition developed simply for the purpose of embarrassing the administration, which as well known, is the sponsor of the bill. The two lone votes in opposition t the measure were S. B Scott of Philadelphia and H. C. Snavely of Lebanon.

In spite of the protests of the house which continued at work the senate adjourned at noon Wednesday, after being in session from Monday evening. In the meantime all the important bills are still in the hands of the sen-

Cherry trees ordered some time ago by Jesse K. Johnston for his boy friends in Charleroi have arrived and are being distributed today from the office of the Carnegie Coal company, [illegible] the Charleroi Coal company office. The trees are nearly all in bud and coming out in leaf, showing the need of puting in the ground at once.

Mr Johnston asks that the boys who want the trees come to the coal works office after them. The only necessary thing for the boys to do is to make known their desire to obtain a tree which is a promise virtually to plant it and take care of it.

Only the best varieties of cherries were ordered by Mr. Johnston They [illegible] here. It is beleved that there will be considerable of a demand for the cherry trees. If the present supply runs short Mr. Johnston will order more. It was his intention if possible to have them here by Arbo-day, which occurred on April 11, but unavoidable delays made this impossible.

Law is Enforced by Department in Case of Central Pennsylvania Man

Howard C Kramlich, a cattle dealer of Northampton, was tried before Judge Stewart at Easton on April 15 charged with shipping cattle into Pennsylvania without a permit or certificate of health. The jury found him guilty on all three counts of the indictment. He was fined $100.00 and costs, amounting in all to about $225.00.

The charges were brought by agents of the Pennsylvania State Livestock Sanitary Board, who had traced the cattle from New York State. Some of the cows, which were badly affected by tuberculosis, were found in the dairy of a farmer near Catasauqua to whom Kramlich had sold them as healthy cattle.

GOOD BILL LISTED FOR SHOW AT PALACE

NO PAY, NO SERVICE WAY AT MONONGAHELA

Complications Develop From Cutting Off of City Phone

SMALL BILL VS. LARGE

City Owes Company $5.60 and Company Owes City $903--May Cut Poles

Interesting complications may result from the cutting off of telephone service at the Monongahela city hall by Manager Frank B Burwell of the Central District Telephone company, more widely known as the Bell system Service was suspended this week it is asserted because the city had failed to recognize a statement from the company amounting to $5.60 The city claims $903 is due on pole tax. Also the city claims the Bell system has no standing whatever in Monongahela and that it in reality has no franchise there

Though the city has been paying in the last two or three years its telephone rental regularly, the Bell company has made no move it is alleged to pay its bill Pole tax was assessed at the rate of $1.00 a pole, and the bill runs each to two or three years Exorbitant says the company which agrees to pay ten cents a pole. "Not at all," argues the city, which furthermore affirms that other companies among them the West Penn Electric company and the Pittsburg Railways company pay that much per pole and pay it without question.

It is stated that by a decision of Judge Taylor in Monongahela the Bell system's ordinance became null and void about two years ago The city has permitted them to maintain service since that time however and thee has been no question raised until date though the company has been positively prohibited from making any extensions or hanging any new wires

Today the city hall at Monongahela is isolated so far as telephone service is concerned Councilmen are wrathy, and the efforts of the Independent telephone company to acquire a franchise in Monongahela will probably meet with considerable disfavor.

Moreover it is asserted that the declaration of war by the company will reach the courts. The city is determined not to budge one inch from its present position. Instead it will most likely give the matter of collection into the hands of the solicitor.

About a year ago Charleroi had some trouble colecting its pole tax from the Bell Telephone company but finally the company did pay and at the rate the borough assessed, which was 50 cents per pole.

If the Monongahela affair is not amicably settled within a very short time it is not unlikely that the proper committee will order the company to remove its poles, or following the example of the Pennsylvania Railroad which, to get the Western Union poles off its property some years ago, simply cut them down. The action of the railroad company brought them in court but the decision was in the railroad's favor, proving that the telegraph company by maintaining its poles on the railroad property after the expiration of its contract was nothing more nor less than trespass.

"Saloons Vs Business" Theme of Lecture by Noted Prohibitionist

Hon. Oliver Wayne Stewart of Chicago, Ill. lectured at the Christian church Wednesday under the auspices of a union of churches on the theme "The Saloon vs Business". His lecture attracted a good sized crowd to the church. Mr. Stewart took up four phases under his topic, the church side of the question, the moral side, the matter of good government and the economical aspect. His points were good, and cited by his argument that the liquor business was an enemy to good business, good government, morals and the church.

A Little Truth About Cigars

In order that a Cigar, no matter what price, be good it is necessary that it retains it's original flavor. This Original Flavor can only be maintained in a Cigar by keeping it in the same temperature and same degree of moisture as it was kept in at the Factory. A Cigar once dried can never again have the flavor that it should have.

We have installed in our Cigar Case an Electrical Device that automatically makes moisture and keeps the temperature at the same degree at all times. CONSEQUENTLY OUR CIGARS ARE GOOD.

LOANS FOR COLLEGE COURSES.

A bill pending in the New York Legislature provides a plan for making loans to graduates of high schools and similar educational institutions who want to go to college but lack money, says the New York Sun. The loans are to be repaid after graduation from college and without interest for one year thereafter. The provisions of the bill apply to any high school in the State, but are especially intended to affect the high school of Yonkers. While similar aid is extended to graduates of some of the higher educational institutions in the United States, there is no other high school in the country which offers the same opportunity to its pupils.

The idea originated with the late Leslie M. Sauders, a manufacturer of Yonkers, who did a great deal in aiding the educational advancement of the city; Charles E. Gorton, superintendent of schools; Richard Ely and other public spirited men in Yonkers. They believed that a helping hand should be extended to worthy boy and girl graduates of the high school who were anxious to obtain a higher education but were without financial means to do so.

It was proposed that loans should be made to such graduates, no security being required other than a promisory note providing for payment of the loan without interest within one year after graduation or with interest if an extension of this period was desired. Of course, under the law such notes would be worthless, the makers being minor, while no indorsements were required. It is believed that the character of the boys or girls selected as worthy of receiving loans will in itsself be a sufficient guarantee that the money will be repaid as a debt of honor. The candidates to be thus aided are to be passed upon by a committee of those forming the organization after having been recommended by the principal and the faculty of the high school.

At first an effort was made to incorporate an organization but the Secretary of State rejected the articles of incorporation, saying that while the object of the incorporators was entirely philanthropic, yet under the law they would be enabled to operate as a business concern. It was therefore decided to have a bill introduced in the Legislature making it possible to carry out the objects desired the organization to be self-perpetuating under the name of the Students Aid Society of the Yonkers High School.

Since the fact became known that such an organization was to be established requests have come from cities in other States, notably New Jersey and Connecticut that graduates of high schools in those States should be included in the opportunities offered graduates of the Yonkers High School. To these requests replies were sent explaining that it was only intended that graduates of that particular school should be eligible for financial assistance in their desire to gain a college education.

OUR BID FOR FAME.

Once again Charleroi is in the spotlight. This time it is in the baseball world. As the training ground for the Indianapolis club of the new Federal league which has just been organized, the Magic City will for a brief period come in for a portion of the fame that is accorded Baden, Indiana, Hot Springs, Arkansas and other training grounds of the professional ball clubs that occupy the attention of the fans more or less in the winter season and considerably more from this time hence. In addition to this Charleroi and Monongahela valley fans will have a special interest in the new league which has just been launched, from the fact that the town figures prominently in its organization.

This distinction is due to the fact that Charleroi happens to be the headquarters of Bill Phillips, who will organize and manage the Indianapolis club. Next to Governor Tener, our own Bill is probably the widest known citizen of Charleroi. While he has never figured much in politics or society, in baseball circles his name is familiar from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast and from the Canadian border to the Mexican line. First, as a topnotch pitcher in the National League, with a first-class record, then as a scout and adviser of some of the big league magnates, and later as a most successful manager in the minors, Bill Phillips has achieved a most enviable record in the baseball school of experience. The new league promises to fill in a popular niche in the baseball world, and Charleroi's part in its organization will give it added interest all along the Monongahela valley.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

A common experience thes days over the hills and out in the country is to encounter dandelion hunters. These are singly or in groups, and are composed for the most part of women and children, all eager for a mess of "greens." As dandelions are the most available for "greens" in this section, the plant, which in some instances becomes a pest is in danger of extermination.

"Hunting 'greens' always makes me hark back to the days of my childhood up in the northern part of the state,' said an elderly man who was out in quest of the festive dandelion. "With us cowslips was the favorite early 'greens.' I have never seen or known of any cowslips in this section, but where I used to live the plant grew most profusely in the swamp sections. It was a low wide-leafed plant, bearing a yellow flower similar to a buttercup. The 'greens' were in their prime when they first sprung up early in the spring before they budded for blossom, and they made a most delectable dish. In my early childhood going 'cowslipping' with mother and the girls constituted a joyous outing. It was tinged with a spice of adventure, as the cowslips were rather difficult to gather and some one of the party was always sure to make a mistep from the old logs and bogs about the swamp and get wet and muddy feet.

"Then there was another wild plant we used to gather and that was the festive leek. Where I used to live they were an abundant crop. A leek, which you know is a species of the onion is cultivated extensively in some sections, particularly in the old countries. The American species that grows wild in the northern counties of this state is a most delicious vegetable and is as much superior to green onions in flavor as a peach is to an apple. But oh, the flavor, after you have eaten them. They give one a breath that doubly discounts the combined odor of a garbage wagon, a glue factry and the fleshing department of a tannery. We kids used to eat them while going to school and the odor in the school room would be so unbearable that the teacher would send the leek-eaters home. The cows that used to run at large were very fond of the leeks and tainted milk and butter were common in thes pring time.

"Then there was a variety of other good 'greens' that grew wild in profusion—poke berry leaves, cow cabbage, and a number of other things. We never thought of raising spinach or any other kind of 'greens,' as all one had to do was to go out into the woods or fields and find them anywhere."

ate committees and the refusal of the latter body to bring them out in causing murmurs loud and deep throughout the state. Those Republicans who have been hopeful that the legislature would act promptly on the progressives measure demanded by the people which would have the effect of harmonizing the Republican party, are becoming very much dejected over the matter.

The senate has concurred in the house amendments to the mothers' pension bill, and the measure now goes to the governor. The house has cleared a big reading calendar, and is making rapid progress in its work.

The Fiddle Drill.

The "fiddle drill" is one of the oldest stonecutting tools in existence. It is said to antedate Greek sculpture and is in use today in about the same form as it was 2,000 years ago. As its name implies, its action resembles a fiddle. The drill is of two pieces. In one hand a carver holds the drill stock, which is like a carpenter's bruce, except that it is straight instead of having a crank. In the other hand he holds the "bow," which is strung with a brass wire and which is given a turn around the drill stock. To use the drill the carver places the drill stock against his breast, holding it with his left hand, and with his right he draws the bow back and forth, fiddle fashion. This imparts a rotary motion to the drill stock, and the drill is ground to cut in either way it turns. The fiddle drill is used in the finest work, in crevices where the sculptor could not reach with his chisel and hammer without endangering the carving.

An Honest Trust.

On leaving a Paris theater a German gentleman felt for his watch. It was gone. Having a strong suspicion he laid violent hands on a man in the crowd, who quietly gave up the ticket. When he got home he found his watch lying on the table.

An Extended Vacation.

"Mrs. Nagg is thinking of visiting the Thousand Islands."

"I understand Mr. Nagg would be glad to have her spend six months on each one."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Information Not Needed.

A middle-aged woman went into a shop and without hesitation made straight for the crape counter. The girl who handled this funeral material was extremely affable.

"We have a large stock of crapes," she explained. "Let me show you some new French goods, very popular at this time for every kind of mourning and designed to express every degree of grief. If you will tell me for whom you are in mourning I can fix you out in exactly the right thing."

"Husband," replied the customer briefly.

"In that case," said the girl graciously, "I can tell you just what"—

"Young lady," interrupted the older woman angrily, "you needn't bother yourself. This is the fourth husband I've buried, and I know all about it."—St. Paul Dispatch.

What It Cost.

In a little town in England not long ago the entire family had been at church and the young minister was coming home to dine with them. While at dinner they were discussing the new stained glass window a member had given. "It is a most beautiful piece of workmanship," said one, "and must have cost a great deal of money." "Do you have any idea how much?" "I really do not," replied the minister, "but far into the hundreds, I should imagine." "No, it didn't," said little Harold. "I know how much it was. It cost 14s. 10d." "Why, Harold, how do you know anything about it?" "Because, mamma, it says at the bottom of the window, 'Job 14, 10.'"—London Globe.

Reason For It.

At a debating society some time ago the Irish question was discussed. An English doctor was sustaining the argument that the Irish were naturally a race with right sentiments, but poorly developed. At Liverpool, he said, he had 300 Irish patients on his books and of these only thirty paid him for attendance.

"Sorr," said an Irishman, who rose with flushed cheek to defend his countrymen—"sorr, there is never an effect without a cause. There is never a phenomenon that does not admit of an explanation. How can we explain the astounding phenomenon to which the doctor has called our attention? He finds an explanation in the natural depravity of the Irish nature. I, sorr, have another explanation to give, and it is this—the thirty patients recovered!"—Pearson's Weekly.

She Paid the Duty.

An English traveler, leaving Alexandria, received a parting present of a large cake, and received it with what enthusiasm she could, but landed at Venice with the cake entire. The eyes of the dogana spied it. "Duty is due for the design on white sugar that decorates the top of that cake." The traveler answered that as the duty seemed quite heavy she would prefer to sink the cake into the waters of the Adriatic. "But," said the official, "you cannot do that inasmuch as the design in sugar aforesaid on the top of the cake is the property of the king of Italy." The traveler then courageously offered to consume the sugar and drown the cake; but not so might she escape, nor did she.

Women Avoid Operations

When a woman suffering from some form of feminine disorder is told that an operation is necessary, it of course frightens her.

The very thought of the hospital operating table and the surgeon's knife strikes terror to her heart, and no wonder. It is quite true that some of these troubles may reach a stage where an operation is the only resource, but thousands of women have avoided the necessity of an operation by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. This fact is attested by the grateful letters they write to us after their health has been restored.

These Two Women Prove Our Claim.

Cary, Maine.—"I feel it a duty I owe to all suffering women to tell what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me. One year ago I found myself a terrible sufferer. I had pains in both sides and such a soreness I could scarcely staighten up at times. My back ached, I had no appetite and was so nervous I could not sleep, then I would be so tired mornings that I could scarcely get around. It seemed almost impossible to move or do a bit of work and I thought I never would be any better until I submitted to an operation. I commenced taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and soon felt like a new woman. I had no pains, slept well, had good appetite and was fat and could do almost all my own work for a family of four. I shall always feel that I owe my good health to your medicine." —Mrs. HAYWARD SOWERS, Cary, Me.

Charlotte, N. C.—"I was in bad health for two years, with pains in both sides and was very nervous. If I even lifted a chair it would cause a hemorrhage. I had a growth which the doctor said was a tumor and I never would get well unless I had an operation. A friend advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I gladly say that I am now enjoying fine health and am the mother of a nice baby girl. You can use this letter to help other suffering women."—Mrs. Rosa Sims, 16 Wyona St., Charlotte, N. C.

Now answer this question if you can. Why should a woman submit to a surgical operation without first giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial? You know that it has saved many others—why should it fail in your case?

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No one sick with woman's ailments does justice to herself if she does not try this famous medicine made from roots and herbs, it has restored so many suffering women to health.

Write to LYDIA E. PINKHAM MEDICINE CO. (CONFIDENTIAL) LYNN, MASS., for advice. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Roy James is home as his school is closed until after the funeral of the teacher who died yesterday.

Ed. C. Drum and Don Allen are spending the day in Pittsburg.

George Newton is a Pittsburg visitor today.

HE SAW THINGS.

The Boy Obeyed His Dad and Learn to Use His Eyes.

In the daily half hour confidential talk with his boy an ambitious London father tried to give some advice.

"Be observing, my son," said the father on one occasion. "Cultivate the habit of seeing, and you will be a successful man. Study things and remember them. Don't go through the world blindly. Learn to use your eyes. Boys who are observant know a great deal more than those who are not."

Willie listened in silence.

Several days later, when the entire family, consisting of his mother, aunt and uncle, were present, his father said:

"Well, Willie, have you kept using your eyes, as I advised you to do?"

Willie nodded and after a moment's hesitation said:

"I have seen a few things about the house. Uncle Jim's got a bottle of hair dye hid under his bed. Aunt Jennie's got an extra set of teeth and a lot of false hair in her dresser, ma's got some curls sewed in her hat, and pa's got a pack of cards and a box of dice and a leather covered flask behind the bookcase."—London Tit-Bits.

PINEAPPLE PLANTS.

They Do Not Die After Fruiting, but Reproduce Themselves.

Pineapples do not grow on trees. Imagine a plant four feet in extreme height from the ground to the tip of leaves, a single stalk at the surface, but dividing at once into swordlike blades or leaves, fifteen in number from the center of which appears a stiff, upright stem, at the top of which is the fruit. This stem is short, and the crown of the fruit when fully grown is a foot or more below the points of the leaves.

At the end of a year and a half from planting each plant produces a single fruit, even as a cabbage plant produces a single head. But the pineapple does not die after fruiting once. Down on the stem below the fruit and among the long, narrow leaves a sucker appears. If allowed to remain this will soon become the head of the plant, and within another year it will yield another fruit. This process may go on for a term of years. In the meantime, however, other suckers will make their appearance.

These are broken off, and when stuck into the ground they put out roots and become other plants. Thus a single pineapple plant may produce a dozen or more others while it is yielding fruit from year to year.

Beauty of the Zebra.

The zebra is perhaps of all quadrupeds the best made and most beautifully clad by the hand of nature. To the figure and graces of the horse it adds the elegance of the stag, and the black and white bands with which its body is ornamented are arranged with such wonderful symmetry that we might almost be disposed to imagine that rule and compass had been employed in their formation. These alternate bands are narrow, parallel and exactly separated. They extend not only over the body, but the head, thigh and legs and even over the ears and tail. They follow so exactly the contour of the different forms that they exhibit the entire figure in the most advantageous point of view. In the female these bands are alternately black and white. In the male they are black and yellow, but always of a lively and brilliant tint. They also rest upon a ground of short, fine and copious hairs, whose lustre considerably augments the general beauty of the colors.—Exchange.

An Island City.

Greater New York consists of forty-five islands. It might be called the Island City. Read the names of some of the larger: Manhattan Island, Long Island, Staten Island, Hart's Island, City Island, Riker's Island, North Brother Island, South Island, Blackwell's Island, Randall's Island, Ward's Island, Berrian's Island, Governors Island, Barren Island and Coney Island. Many small ones in Jamaica bay have large names. One inland island, Marble Hill, near Kingsbridge, has been made by the government channel cut through on the Harlem river improvements.

Human Nature.

"Why is it," asked the curious guest, "that poor men usually give larger tips than rich men?"

"Well, suh," said the waiter, who was something of a philosopher as well, "looks to me like de po' man don't want nobody to find out he's po', and de rich man don't want nobody to find out he's rich."—Exchange.

A Great Peeps Saw.

King James I had a gigantic porter eight feet six inches in height, but he was not perfect being round shouldered, knockkneed and lame in one foot. Of a similar height was Charles Munster, a yeoman of the Hanoverian guard who died in 1676, and seven years before there was being exhibited in London a Dutchman eight feet nine inches high anent whom in Pepys' diary we find the following entry on Aug. 15, 1669: "Went to Charing Cross to see the great Dutchman. I did walk under his arm with my hat on and could not reach his chin with the tips of my fingers."

Happiness.

If you cannot be happy in one way, be in another, and this facility of disposition wants but little aid from philosophy, for health and good humor are almost the whole affair. Many run about after felicity, like an absent minded man hunting for his hat while it is in his hand or on his head.

Her Property.

Now and again things happen on the football field which go to add to the gayety of the nation. On one occasion, for instance, during a certain league match in the north, the referee somehow managed to lose his whistle. There was not another whistle to be found, and it seemed that the game would have to come to a sudden and inglorious end, until the referee hit upon an ingenious scheme. He produced a latchkey from his pocket and managed to tootle merrily enough on it till suddenly, as he approached the touch line, a woman's shrill voice was heard exclaiming:

"Fred, come here at once. Where did you get that latchkey?"

As he listened to the guffaw which went up from the assembled crowd that referee was the most sheepish looking man on the ground, and as he thought of the curtain lecture looming ahead his heart became like lead within his bosom.—London Answers.

YOUR AMBITION.

Have You a Clear Cut Idea of the Object of Your Desire?

Several years ago, when I filled a position which brought me many visitors each day and many more letters at the same time, I was overburdened with requests for advice from persons who wished "to succeed," "to accomplish," "to attain." But, as strange as the statement may seem to you, I can truthfully say that not one in a hundred of these earnest seekers was able to state exactly what he or she really wanted.

They were dissatified and discontented and felt the vague urge of unrest pushing them forward to further endeavor and attainment, but it stopped right there. Ninety-nine out of every hundred did not know what they wanted. They asked not only for advice regarding the means of accomplishment and attainment, but also for information as to what they should really desire.

"Silly," you exclaim. Not a bit of it. I venture to say that you—yes, you who are now reading these lines—are not much better off regarding clear cut ideas and ideals. You want and want you want? Have you a clearly defined idea and a clear cut ideal of the object of your desire? Honor bright now, have you?—William Walker Atkinson in Nautilus.

A Lover's Homely Face.

The poet Rogers was afflicted with a notably unpleasant, cadaverous countenance, which, with all his intellectual power, was a mortification to him. To hide his annoyance he joked about his ugliness incessantly and deceived his friends into supposing him indifferent to it. He once turned to Sydney Smith, who, with Byron and Moore was dining with him, and said:

"Chauntrey wants to perpetuate this miserable face of mine. What post would you suggest that I should take?"

"If you really wish to spare the world as much as possible," said the wit, "I would, if I were you, be taken at my prayers, my face buried in my hands."

Rogers laughed with the other persons present, but he shot a malignant glance at the jester and, it is said, never fully forgave him for the bonmot.

A Primitive Partnership.

There are three partners in a boat in a Yorkshire fishing village who will not accept a check because the bank is too far away. They have two miles to walk to get their money orders cashed. Only one of the three is able to read and write, and he draws the money, and then the three sit at a table and divide it.

"One for yow," says the lender, and places a sovereign in front of one partner. "One for thee" and another sovereign is put in front of the other partner. "And one for me"—and he places another at his own corner.

And so he goes on, "One for yow, one for thee, and one for me," until the sovereigns are equally shared, then the silver and even the pence are divided in the same way.—London Mail.

THE UMBRELLA.

Its Antiquity and Its Introduction Into English Writings.

Umbrellas were first used in a country where the intensity of the light and heat rendered a shade almost indispensable, and discoveries at Nineveh show that they were carried before the king in time of peace and sometimes in war.

In 1608 Thomas Coryat traveled in Italy and wrote, "The people do carry umbrellas—that is, things that minister shadow unto them for shelter against the scorching of the sun."

In Beaumont and Fletcher's play, 1640, "Rule a Wife and Have a Wife," are these words, which prove that they were then known in England: "Are you at ease? Now is your heart at ease. Now you have got a shadow, an umbrella, to keep the world's scorching opinion from your fair credit."

In 1786 Jonas Hanway died in a house in Red Lion square. He was the first man who ventured to walk the streets of London with an umbrella over his head.

Dr. Shebbear was committed to the court of king's bench for a libel and was sentenced to stand in the pillory, but a servant in livery was hired to hold an umbrella over his head to

Beauty of Colonial Gateposts.

Perhaps no other feature adds more to the seclusion and dignity of a house than well designed entrance gateposts. The meeting point of house and grounds always presents a difficult problem, even in the best suburban architecture. Shrubbery often mitigates this unavoidable intersection, but the old fashioned white picket fence full of interesting detail and backed up by hedges, solved the problem most satisfactorily. Yet this best solution must be used with discretion. On suburban streets broken up into many small lots, there should be an agreement on the part of several neighbors to put up the same sort of fence; otherwise the different heights and shapes of the pickets would be too disturbing to add any beauty to the houses. In other words, a good picket fence demands a certain amount of continuity to do it justice. In the gateposts, however, a great variety could be displayed, and where there is a group of little colonial houses, or even only colonial doorways, the famous old gateposts of Salem offer a wealth of suggestion.—Country Life in America.
